

A Concert for Students of French with « Grand Dérangement »

Grand Dérangement is an award winning group of Acadian musicians from Nova Scotia. The name Grand Dérangement refers to the expulsion of the Acadians in 1755, but the name also alludes to the group wanting to rouse its audience. The music is exciting, the rhythms are contagious, the dancers are entralling, and the show is a visual feast. The group holds a special place in the world of French-language music for they build a bridge between the old and the new and are Acadian ambassadors throughout Europe and North America.
